Subject: FW: Hope For the Holidays Event

Hello everyone,

I am excited to announce that we will once again be participating in the Hope For the Holidays event this year for the Abused Adult Resource Center. We adopted 2 small families and the individuals within the family are located below. These lists are to give ideas of what you may purchase for them, if you wish, and you may purchase whatever you would like for them as well.

PLEASE NOTE: When purchasing toys for children please be aware that due to the fact that a weapon may have been used during a violent incident, we request that no toy guns or weapons be purchased.

Please make sure the items are new and are wrapped or in gift bags and PLEASE make sure the client ID number is clearly marked on each package. Each individual has a number and letter(s) to identify them.

We plan on dropping off the gifts around the 7th of December, so please make your purchases accordingly. You can bring the gifts and place them under the reception area Christmas tree or you can keep them with you until we get closer to the drop off time. There is an envelope on the tree to place gift cards in should you choose to purchase those for any of the family members. This list will be printed out and in the 1st floor copy room so please remember to cross off anything you will be purchasing or have purchased off the list so we do not double up on presents.

 Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

All,
 Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA’s request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit’s stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA’s motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA’s suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners’ response period by five days, while expanding OSHA’s reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 2â€³3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA’s administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA’s stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners’ concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep’t of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an an emergency standard the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 47 F.4th 3, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing
Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the fully text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,
Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows the Court to address these issues in a matter of weeks.

Body

THE CURRENT SCHEDULE ALLOWS THIS COURT TO EITHER VACATE THE STAY, OR NOT, BY MID-DECEMBER. THAT WILL LEAVE THE PARTIES WITH AMPLE TIME TO ASK THE SUPREME COURT TO EITHER REINSTATE OR VACATE THE STAY BEFORE JANUARY 4, WHICH IS THE DATE ON WHICH THE VACCINE MANDATE WILL GO INTO FULL EFFECT. COVID-19 VACCINATION AND TESTING; EMERGENCY TEMPORARY STANDARD, 86 FED. REG. 61402, 61551 (NOV. 5, 2021). IF OSHA IS NOT CONTENT TO WAIT A FEW WEEKS FOR A RULING ON ITS MOTION TO DISSOLVE THE STAY, IT CAN GO TO THE SUPREME COURT NOW.

SECOND, THE MERITS-BRIEFING SCHEDULE THAT OSHA PROPOSES WILL NOT ALLOW FOR FULL DEVELOPMENT OF THE ISSUES BEFORE THIS COURT. IN THIS CHALLENGE TO OSHA'S ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION, THE PETITIONERS ARE ENTITLED TO A COMPLETE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD. OSHA HAS YET TO PROVIDE THAT RECORD AND, IN CONVERSATIONS WITH COUNSEL FOR THE STATES, WOULD NOT COMMIT TO PROVIDING IT BY ANY DATE. DEPENDING ON WHAT THE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD SAYS, THE PETITIONERS WILL PURSUE DISCOVERY. HERE, PUBLIC STATEMENTS FROM FEDERAL OFFICIALS SUGGEST THAT OSHA'S STATED REASONS FOR PROMULGATING THE VACCINE MANDATE ARE PRETEXTUAL. SEE BST HOLDINGS, 2021 WL 5279381 AT *5. IF THE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD DOES NOT ADEQUATELY ACCOUNT FOR THE PETITIONERS' CONCERNS REGARDING PRETEXT, THE PETITIONERS WILL PURSUE, AND WILL LIKELY BE ENTITLED TO, DISCOVERY. SEE, E.G., DEPT. OF COM. V. NEW YORK, 139 S. CT. 2551, 2574 (2019).

THIRD, THE PROPOSED SCHEDULE IS IMPRACTICAL FOR ANOTHER REASON: IT GIVES THE PETITIONERS ALMOST NO TIME TO COORDINATE THEIR FILINGS WITH THIS COURT. OSHA ASKS THIS COURT TO DIRECT THE PETITIONERS TO ORGANIZE THEMSELVES INTO GROUPS AND TO REQUIRE EACH GROUP TO FILE A SINGLE BRIEF. SEE MOTION TO AMEND SCHEDULE AT 3. ALTERNATIVELY, IT SAYS, THE COURT COULD SET A TOTAL WORD LIMIT AND ALLOW PETITIONERS TO DIVIDE THAT TOTAL BRIEFING AMONG THEMSELVES. ID. THE PETITIONERS HAVE NO OBJECTION TO THIS METHOD OF PROCEEDING. BUT IT IS NOT FEASIBLE FOR THE MANY PETITIONERS IN THIS CASE TO CONFER AND COME TO AN AGREEMENT IN TIME TO FILE OPENING MERITS BRIEFS BY THE DECEMBER 8 DUE DATE THAT OSHA HAS PROPOSED.

FOURTH, AND PERHAPS MOST IMPORTANTLY, OSHA SHOULD NOT BE ABLE TO DEMAND EXPEDITED IN ORDER TO RESOLVE AN EMERGENCY OF ITS OWN MAKING. OSHA WAITED ALMOST A YEAR AFTER VACCINES BECAME AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC BEFORE ISSUING AN EMERGENCY STANDARD FOR THE VACCINE MANDATE REQUIRING AMERICAN WORKERS TO EITHER VACCINATE THEMSELVES OR PAY FOR EXPENSIVE, WEEKLY TESTING. SEE COVID-19 VACCINATION AND TESTING; EMERGENCY TEMPORARY STANDARD, 86 FED. REG. 61402, 61554 (NOV. 5, 2021). AFTER THE FIFTH CIRCUIT STAYED ENFORCEMENT OF THE VACCINE MANDATE, BST HOLDINGS, L.L.C. V. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, AT *1 (5TH CIR. NOV. 12, 2021), OSHA WAITED A FULL ELEVEN DAYS BEFORE SEEKING RELIEF FROM THAT STAY THOUGH IT COULD HAVE GONE TO THE SUPREME COURT IMMEDIATELY. ITS MOTION TO DISSOLVE THE FIFTH CIRCUIT'S STAY DID NOT SUGGEST ANY BRIEFING SCHEDULE. THEN, AFTER MOVING TO DISSOLVE THE STAY, OSHA WAITED UNTIL 4:00 PM ON THE WEDNESDAY BEFORE THANKSGIVING TO MOVE TO EXPEDITE THE RESOLUTION OF ITS MOTION TO VACATE AND TO PROPOSE A SCHEDULE UNDER WHICH MERITS BRIEFING MUST BE COMPLETED IN A MATTER OF WEEKS.

OSHA'S DELAY SHOWS THAT THE AGENCY DOES NOT REALLY THINK THE VACCINE MANDATE IS NEEDED TO SAVE LIVES; IF IT REALLY BELIEVED THAT, IT WOULD HAVE FILED IN THE SUPREME COURT WITHIN HOURS OF THE FIFTH CIRCUIT'S DECISION. BUT PUT THAT ASIDE. IF THERE IS AN URGENT NEED TO ENSURE THE VACCINE MANDATE IS IN FORCE BY JANUARY 4, IT IS ONLY BECAUSE OF OSHA'S SLOTH. NO ONE STOPPED OSHA FROM ISSUING THE VACCINE MANDATE SOONER, ALLOWING MORE TIME FOR JUDICIAL REVIEW. AND NO ONE STOPPED THE SOLICITOR GENERAL FROM SEEKING IMMEDIATE RELIEF AT THE SUPREME COURT ON OSHA'S BEHALF. IF MATTERS ARE NOW PROGRESSING MORE SLOWLY THAN OSHA WOULD LIKE, IT HAS ONLY ITSELF TO BLAME.

Subject: RE: OHS - Stay Stage Briefing

All,

Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)

After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the absurd briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

Subject: RE: OHS - Stay Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group.

Body

- Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at 51) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few toes over the line (or even entire limbs). It probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
- Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely howl, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The timetable here virtually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
- Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some uniquely strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that defy the official reasoning, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought. Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving,
Drew

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing.

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021). See ETS at 61529.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into *á*voluntarily*á* vaccinating. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employees will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the Holidays where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing *á*alternative*á* is the best example of a wolf in sheep*á*s clothing that I have encountered in my career.

Subject: RE: OHSa - Stay-Stage Briefing

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OSHA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

Subject: Re: OHSa - Stay-Stage Briefing

That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mot.46.

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in DOJ's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

Subject: OHSA - Stay-Stage Briefing

All,

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en bloc brief can be pretty quickly repositioned into an opposition to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to more.

 Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

***** CAUTION: This email originated from an outside source. Do not click links or open attachments unless you know they are safe. *****

All,
 Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA’s request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit’s stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA’s motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA’s suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners’ response period by five days, while expanding OSHA’s reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 23 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA’s administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA’s stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners’ concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep’t of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Emergency standard the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 38 F.4th 3, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing
Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the fully text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,
Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows the Court to address these issues in a matter of weeks.

Body

THE CURRENT SCHEDULE ALLOWS THIS COURT TO EITHER VACATE THE STAY, OR NOT, BY MID-DECEMBER. THAT WILL LEAVE THE PARTIES WITH AMPLE TIME TO ASK THE SUPREME COURT TO EITHER REINSTATE OR VACATE THE STAY BEFORE JANUARY 4, WHICH IS THE DATE ON WHICH THE VACCINE MANDATE WILL GO INTO FULL EFFECT. COVID-19 VACCINATION AND TESTING; EMERGENCY TEMPORARY STANDARD, 86 FED. REG. 61402, 61551 (NOV. 5, 2021). IF OSHA IS NOT CONTENT TO WAIT A FEW WEEKS FOR A RULING ON ITS MOTION TO DISSOLVE THE STAY, IT CAN GO TO THE SUPREME COURT NOW.

SECOND, THE MERITS BRIEFING SCHEDULE THAT OSHA PROPOSES WILL NOT ALLOW FOR FULL DEVELOPMENT OF THE ISSUES BEFORE THIS COURT. IN THIS CHALLENGE TO OSHA'S ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION, THE PETITIONERS ARE ENTITLED TO A COMPLETE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD. OSHA HAS YET TO PROVIDE THAT RECORD AND, IN CONVERSATIONS WITH COUNSEL FOR THE STATES, WOULD NOT COMMIT TO PROVIDING IT BY ANY DATE. DEPENDING ON WHAT THE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD SAYS, THE PETITIONERS WILL PURSUE DISCOVERY. HERE, PUBLIC STATEMENTS FROM FEDERAL OFFICIALS SUGGEST THAT OSHA'S STATED REASONS FOR PROMULGATING THE VACCINE MANDATE ARE PRETEXTUAL. SEE BST HOLDINGS, 2021 WL 5279381 AT *5. IF THE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD DOES NOT ADEQUATELY ACCOUNT FOR THE PETITIONERS' CONCERNS REGARDING PRETEXT, THE PETITIONERS WILL PURSUE, AND WILL LIKELY BE ENTITLED TO, DISCOVERY. SEE, E.G., DEPT. OF COM. V. NEW YORK, 139 S. CT. 2551, 2574 (2019).

THIRD, THE PROPOSED SCHEDULE IS IMPRACTICAL FOR ANOTHER REASON: IT GIVES THE PETITIONERS ALMOST NO TIME TO COORDINATE THEIR FILINGS WITH THIS COURT. OSHA ASKS THIS COURT TO DIRECT THE PETITIONERS TO ORGANIZE THEMSELVES INTO GROUPS AND TO REQUIRE EACH GROUP TO FILE A SINGLE BRIEF. SEE MOTION TO AMEND SCHEDULE AT 3. ALTERNATIVELY, IT SAYS, THE COURT COULD SET A TOTAL WORD LIMIT AND ALLOW PETITIONERS TO DIVIDE THAT TOTAL BRIEFING AMONG THEMSELVES. Id. THE PETITIONERS HAVE NO OBJECTION TO THIS METHOD OF PROCEEDING. BUT IT IS NOT FEASIBLE FOR THE MANY PETITIONERS IN THIS CASE TO CONFER AND COME TO AN AGREEMENT IN TIME TO FILE OPENING MERITS BRIEFS BY THE DECEMBER 8 DUE DATE THAT OSHA HAS PROPOSED.

FOURTH, AND PERHAPS MOST IMPORTANTLY, OSHA SHOULD NOT BE ABLE TO DEMAND EXPEDITION IN ORDER TO RESOLVE AN EMERGENCY OF ITS OWN MAKING. OSHA WAITED ALMOST A YEAR AFTER VACCINES BECAME AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC BEFORE ISSUING AN EMERGENCY STANDARD FOR THE VACCINE MANDATE REQUIRING AMERICAN WORKERS TO EITHER VACCINATE THEMSELVES OR PAY FOR EXPENSIVE, WEEKLY TESTING. SEE COVID-19 VACCINATION AND TESTING; EMERGENCY TEMPORARY STANDARD, 86 FED. REG. 61402, 61554 (NOV. 5, 2021). AFTER THE FIFTH CIRCUIT STAYED ENFORCEMENT OF THE VACCINE MANDATE, BST HOLDINGS, L.L.C. V. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, AT *1 (5TH CIR. NOV. 12, 2021), OSHA WAITED A FULL ELEVEN DAYS BEFORE SEEKING RELIEF FROM THAT STAY THOUGH IT COULD HAVE GONE TO THE SUPREME COURT IMMEDIATELY. ITS MOTION TO DISSOLVE THE FIFTH CIRCUIT'S STAY DID NOT SUGGEST ANY BRIEFING SCHEDULE. THEN, AFTER MOVING TO DISSOLVE THE STAY, OSHA WAITED UNTIL 4:00 PM ON THE WEDNESDAY BEFORE THANKSGIVING TO MOVE TO EXPEDITE THE RESOLUTION OF ITS MOTION TO VACATE AND TO PROPOSE A SCHEDULE UNDER WHICH MERITS BRIEFING MUST BE COMPLETED IN A MATTER OF WEEKS.

OSHA'S DELAY SHOWS THAT THE AGENCY DOES NOT REALLY THINK THE VACCINE MANDATE IS NEEDED TO SAVE LIVES; IF IT REALLY BELIEVED THAT, IT WOULD HAVE FILED IN THE SUPREME COURT WITHIN HOURS OF THE FIFTH CIRCUIT'S DECISION. BUT PUT THAT ASIDE. IF THERE IS AN URGENT NEED TO ENSURE THE VACCINE MANDATE IS IN FORCE BY JANUARY 4, IT IS ONLY BECAUSE OF OSHA'S SLOTH. NO ONE STOPPED OSHA FROM ISSUING THE VACCINE MANDATE SOONER, ALLOWING MORE TIME FOR JUDICIAL REVIEW. AND NO ONE STOPPED THE SOLICITOR GENERAL FROM SEEKING IMMEDIATE RELIEF AT THE SUPREME COURT ON OSHA'S BEHALF. IF MATTERS ARE NOW PROGRESSING MORE SLOWLY THAN OSHA WOULD LIKE, IT HAS ONLY ITSELF TO BLAME.

Subject: RE: OHS - Stay-Stage Briefing

All,

Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)

After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the absurd briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

Subject: Re: OHS - Stay-Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group.

Body

- Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at 51) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few toes over the line (or even entire limbs). It probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
- Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely howl, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The timetable here virtually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
- Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some uniquely strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that defy the official reasoning, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought. Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving,
Drew

 subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing.

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021). See ETS at 61529.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into *á*voluntarily*á* vaccinating. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employees will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the Holidays where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing *á*alternative*á* is the best example of a wolf in sheep*á*s clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OSHA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

I would add that the citation to 29 usc 669(a)(3) borders on sanctionable. Go take a look at the way they quote it on page 16 and then look at what the statute actually says.

Subject: Re: OHSa - Stay-Stage Briefing

That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mot.46.

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can | Body | operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in DOJ's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with. Drew <hr/> From: Benjamin Flowers &lt;Benjamin.Flowers@OhioAGD.gov&gt; Sent: Tuesday, November 23, 2021 6:24:57 AM To: Judd Stone, Murrill, Elizabeth, Ensign, Drew, Joshua Richardson Cc: Henry Whitaker; Rowdree, Barrett; cori.mills@alaska.gov; jessie.alloway@alaska.gov; ninia.dizon@alaska.gov; Roysden, Beau; Daniel Bell; James Percival; Jeffrey DeSouza; Drew Waldbeser; Ross Bergethor; brian.kane@ag.idaho.gov; tom.fisher@ag.in.gov; kian.hudson@ag.in.gov; jeff.chanay@ag.ks.gov; Brant.Laue@ag.ks.gov; Chad.Meredith@ky.gov; Matt.Kuhn@ky.gov; St. John, Joseph; Whitney.Liscomb@ago.ms.gov; Scott.Stewart@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Matheny@ago.ms.gov; John.Sauer@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Smith@ago.mo.gov; David.Deshires@mt.gov; Jim.Campbell@ndetraska.gov; Daniel.F.Will@nd.gov; Anthony.J.Galster@nj.gov; wstenehjem@nd.gov; masagsve@nd.gov; tseibel@nd.gov; May Mailman; mithun.mansinghani@oag.ok.gov; zach.west@oag.ok.gov; Emory Smith; HKirkland@scag.gov; BCook@scag.gov; ThomasHydrick@scag.gov; steven.blair@state.sd.us; Paul.Svedlund@state.sd.us; Sarah K. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en bloc brief can be pretty quickly repropounded into an opposition to this stay request. One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to more. Ben Flowers         Ohio Solicitor General         Office of Ohio Attorney General Dave Yost         Office number: (614) 728-7311 Cell phone: (614) 736-4938 benjamin.flowers@ohiosolicitorgeneral.gov <small>Confidentiality Notice: This message is intended for use only by the individual or entity to whom or which it is addressed and may contain sensitive data and information that is privileged, confidential and/or otherwise exempt from disclosure under applicable law. You are on the right track. I just didn't want to have this elapse while so many are out of the office.

Just FYI, I am on all of the email lists for the vaccine cases. I have not responded to Mr. Flowers's email yet because I was waiting to see whether our 8th Circuit coalition was going to respond as a group, and because we have until Monday to respond. I had intended to let him know that I've agreed with his approach.

Please let me know whether there is a problem with my responsiveness on these vaccine cases, and/or whether you would like us to manage them differently.

I'm not sure if you need further authorization on this, but North Dakota joins as well.

Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

All.

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its 3rd Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 24th with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Depot of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard for the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.4th 487, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: CHSA - Stay Stage Briefing
Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the fully text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,

Body

Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dept of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard—the Vaccine Mandate—requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives, if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But put that aside. If there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All,
Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)

After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the absurd briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Body

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group.

- 1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at 51) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few toes over the line (or even entire limbs). It probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
- 2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely howl, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The timetable here virtually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
- 3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some uniquely strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that belie the official reasoning, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought. Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving,
Drew

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021). See ETS at 61539.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into ~~voluntary~~ vaccinating. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employees will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the Holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing ~~alternative~~ is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly, Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OSHA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

Subject: Re: OHSa - Stay-Stage Briefing

That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish
 the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mot.46.

Body

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in DOJ's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

Subject: DHS - Stay-Stage Briefing

All,

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en banc brief can be pretty quickly repurposed into an opposition to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, would<sup>you</sup> be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to move.

Just FYI, I am on all of the email lists for the vaccine cases. I have not responded to Mr. Flowers's email yet because I was waiting to see whether our 8th Circuit coalition was going to respond as a group, and because we have until Monday to respond. I had intended to let him know that I've agreed with his approach.

Please let me know whether there is a problem with my responsiveness on these vaccine cases, and/or whether you would like us to manage them differently.

Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

***** CAUTION: This email originated from an outside source. Do not click links or open attachments unless you know they are safe. *****
All.

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its 3CoeMotion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. 3C That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 24C-3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Depot of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard for the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.4th 487, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: CHSA - Stay Stage Briefing
Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the fully text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,

Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dept of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard—the Vaccine Mandate—requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives, if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But put that aside. If there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All,
Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)

After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the absurd briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Body

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group.

- Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at 51) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few toes over the line (or even entire limbs). It probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
- Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely howl, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The timetable here virtually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
- Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some uniquely strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that belie the official reasoning, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought. Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving,
Drew

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021). See ETS at 61539.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employee. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into ~~voluntary~~ vaccinating. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employees will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the Holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing ~~alternative~~ is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly, Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OSHA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

Subject: Re: OHSa - Stay-Stage Briefing

That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish
 the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mot46.

Body

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in DOJ's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

Subject: DHS - Stay Stage Briefing

All,

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en banc brief can be pretty quickly repurposed into an opposition to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, would you be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to move.

Can you help? Here's how it works: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Someone from your office would need to get an empty box and print the attached sign and place on the box.</li> <li>2. Collect as much non-perishable food as you can and let us know the total count, and number of people at your agency. We'll divide the number of food you collect by the number of people in your agency and average for your total. (This makes it fair for smaller agencies to compete against larger agencies)</li> <li>3. Food collection would run from Tuesday the 30th of November, until Tuesday the 14th of December. On Thursday the 16th, someone from your agency would need to drop off the food donations to the Bismarck Emergency Food Pantry (1012 S 12th St, Bismarck, ND 58504) between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.</li> </ol> We will also be taking a photo of all participating agencies and sharing it on our social media on Tuesday, November 30th at 9:30 a.m. in the Great Hall. If you'd like to be in the photo, please come by the Great Hall at this time. We'd love to see you there! Does this seem like a lot? We promise it's not. Please let us know if you're participating, and we look forward to competing against you! Joshua C. GallionState Auditor           600 E. Can you help? Here's how it works: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Someone from your office would need to get an empty box and print the attached sign and place on the box.</li> <li>2. Collect as much non-perishable food as you can and let us know the total count, and number of people at your agency. We'll divide the number of food you collect by the number of people in your agency and average for your total. (This makes it fair for smaller agencies to compete against larger agencies)</li> <li>3. Food collection would run from Tuesday the 30th of November, until Tuesday the 14th of December. On Thursday the 16th, someone from your agency would need to drop off the food donations to the Bismarck Emergency Food Pantry (1012 S 12th St, Bismarck, ND 58504) between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.</li> </ol> We will also be taking a photo of all participating agencies and sharing it on our social media on Tuesday, November 30th at 9:30 a.m. in the Great Hall. If you'd like to be in the photo, please come by the Great Hall at this time. We'd love to see you there! Does this seem like a lot? I responded with all of the guns law changes and will hopefully hear back in December when Minnesota conducts their required review of law changes from other states. As soon as I hear back I will let everyone know about their response. Thanks, Chief Agent Casey Miller         Bureau of Criminal Investigation         (701) 328-9827 Office         §44-04-18.3 Cell cajmill@nd.gov  |

I responded with all of the guns law changes and will hopefully hear back in December when Minnesota conducts their required review of law changes from other states. As soon as I hear back I will let everyone know about their response. Thanks, Chief Agent Casey Miller         Bureau of Criminal Investigation         (701) 828-9827 Office         §44-04-18.3 Cell cajmill@nd.gov  |

Can you help? Here's how it works: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Someone from your office would need to get an empty box and print the attached sign and place on the box.</li> <li>Collect as much non-perishable food as you can and let us know the total count, and number of people at your agency. We'll divide the number of food you collect by the number of people in your agency and average for your total. (This makes it fair for smaller agencies to compete against larger agencies)</li> <li>Food collection would run from Tuesday the 30th of November, until Tuesday the 14th of December. On Thursday the 16th, someone from your agency would need to drop off the food donations to the Bismarck Emergency Food Pantry (1012 S 12th St, Bismarck, ND 58504) between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.</li> </ol> We will also be taking a photo of all participating agencies and sharing it on our social media on Tuesday, November 30th at 9:30 a.m. in the Great Hall. If you'd like to be in the photo, please come by the Great Hall at this time. We'd love to see you there! Does this seem like a lot? We promise it's not. Please let us know if you're participating, and we look forward to competing against you! Joshua C. GallionState Auditor  600 E. Can you help? Here's how it works: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Someone from your office would need to get an empty box and print the attached sign and place on the box.</li> <li>2. Collect as much non-perishable food as you can and let us know the total count, and number of people at your agency. We'll divide the number of food you collect by the number of people in your agency and average for your total. (This makes it fair for smaller agencies to compete against larger agencies)</li> <li>3. Food collection would run from Tuesday the 30th of November, until Tuesday the 14th of December. On Thursday the 16th, someone from your agency would need to drop off the food donations to the Bismarck Emergency Food Pantry (1012 S 12th St, Bismarck, ND 58504) between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.</li> </ol> We will also be taking a photo of all participating agencies and sharing it on our social media on Tuesday, November 30th at 9:30 a.m. in the Great Hall. If you'd like to be in the photo, please come by the Great Hall at this time. We'd love to see you there! Does this seem like a lot? We promise it's not. Please let us know if you're participating, and we look forward to competing against you! Joshua C. GallionState Auditor  600 E. Small correction to the below list under the Boy 6 it should be "Venom Goo Jit Zu toy". Also, under Mom 35 from Family 1 she lists boots as a possible gift but they did not provide her shoe size. We will try to call and get that information and will add it to the list.

Thank you and I hope you have a fantastic day!

Subject: FW: Hope For the Holidays Event

Hello everyone,

I am excited to announce that we will once again be participating in the Hope For the Holidays event this year for the Abused Adult Resource Center. We adopted 2 small families and the individuals within the family are located below. These lists are to give ideas of what you may purchase for them, if you wish, and you may purchase whatever you would like for them as well.

PLEASE NOTE: When purchasing toys for children please be aware that due to the fact that a weapon may have been used during a violent incident, we request that no toy guns or weapons be purchased.

Please make sure the items are new and are wrapped or in gift bags and PLEASE make sure the client ID number is clearly marked on each package. Each individual has a number and letter(s) to identify them.

We plan on dropping off the gifts around the 7th of December, so please make your purchases accordingly. You can bring the gifts and place them under the reception area Christmas tree or you can keep them with you until we get closer to the drop off time. There is an envelope on the tree to place gift cards in should you choose to purchase those for any of the family members. This list will be printed out and in the 1st floor copy room so please remember to cross off anything you will be purchasing or have purchased off the list so we do not double up on presents.

Small correction to the below list under the Boy 6 it should be "Venom Goo Jit Zu toy". Also, under Mom 35 from Family 1 she lists boots as a possible gift but they did not provide her shoe size. We will try to call and get that information and will add it to the list.

Thank you and I hope you have a fantastic day!

Subject: FW: Hope For the Holidays Event

Hello everyone,

I am excited to announce that we will once again be participating in the Hope For the Holidays event this year for the Abused Adult Resource Center. We adopted 2 small families and the individuals within the family are located below. These lists are to give ideas of what you may purchase for them, if you wish, and you may purchase whatever you would like for them as well.

PLEASE NOTE: When purchasing toys for children please be aware that due to the fact that a weapon may have been used during a violent incident, we request that no toy guns or weapons be purchased.

Please make sure the items are new and are wrapped or in gift bags and PLEASE make sure the client ID number is clearly marked on each package. Each individual has a number and letter(s) to identify them.

We plan on dropping off the gifts around the 7th of December, so please make your purchases accordingly. You can bring the gifts and place them under the reception area Christmas tree or you can keep them with you until we get closer to the drop off time. There is an envelope on the tree to place gift cards in should you choose to purchase those for any of the family members. This list will be printed out and in the 1st floor copy room so please remember to cross off anything you will be purchasing or have purchased off the list so we do not double up on presents.

Yes, you are. I don't think they have yet obtained a commitment from a representative of Homeland Security for a discussion with you and General Tong, and are inclined to think no one likely will commit. Instead, I think it more likely will be you and General Tong making introductory comments about the importance of this topic. If so, they will be preparing some remarks or comments for consideration.

Wayne:

I have tentatively indicated that I thought you would be available on December 8 for the Fireside Chat as a Moderator with General Tong. Of course, I promised to confirm as soon as possible. I don't know whether your schedule allows you to stay for all of Dec. 8 and 9 (if at all); however, I certainly don't think you would be expected to attend the entire event.

Thank you for your consideration.

Small correction to the below list under the Boy 6 it should be "Venom Goo Jit Zu toy". Also, under Mom 35 from Family 1 she lists boots as a possible gift but they did not provide her shoe size. We will try to call and get that information and will add it to the list.

Subject: FW: Hope For the Holidays Event

Hello everyone,

I am excited to announce that we will once again be participating in the Hope For the Holidays event this year for the Abused Adult Resource Center. We adopted 2 small families and the individuals within the family are located below. These lists are to give ideas of what you may purchase for them, if you wish, and you may purchase whatever you would like for them as well.

PLEASE NOTE: When purchasing toys for children please be aware that due to the fact that a weapon may have been used during a violent incident, we request that no toy guns or weapons be purchased.

Please make sure the items are new and are wrapped or in gift bags and PLEASE make sure the client ID number is clearly marked on each package. Each individual has a number and letter(s) to identify them.

We plan on dropping off the gifts around the 7th of December, so please make your purchases accordingly. You can bring the gifts and place them under the reception area Christmas tree or you can keep them with you until we get closer to the drop off time. There is an envelope on the tree to place gift cards in should you choose to purchase those for any of the family members. This list will be printed out and in the 1st floor copy room so please remember to cross off anything you will be purchasing or have purchased off the list so we do not double up on presents.

Since I know many of you are also litigating the CMS vaccine mandate, I wanted to pass along the preliminary injunction order we just got from the Eastern District of Missouri. We're still digesting this, but it appears that the judge limited the injunction's scope to all Medicare and Medicaid providers in the 10 plaintiff states. Even so, the decision is solid, so hopefully, you all can use it in your respective cases.

 Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

Thanks everyone. We now have heard back from: Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and West Virginia. Here is the current draft, which contains some small changes suggested by the various States.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 1, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate would go into full effect. COVID- 19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay- schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay- stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 24-3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits- briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners may need to pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID- 19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have asked this Court to vacate the stay earlier, could have sought an expedited schedule before this Court at the same time, or could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Yet OSHA's eventual motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not even suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay suggests that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. No one stopped the agency from filing an earlier motion to vacate, either. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All;

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 19. The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 7, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners. The proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare ML to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 284<sup>3</sup> with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BOT Holdings, 2021 WL 5179381 at *9. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 251, 254 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups, and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it asks the Court to direct OSHA to set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 6 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Interim Emergency Standard for the Workplace mandating American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BOT Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 867 F.3d 484, 2021 WL 5272481, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 11, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay, though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives, if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's fault. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Here is an attached response. IBC's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at noon Eastern, if I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, IBC've copied the full text of the response into this email below.

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOI about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61,842, 61,551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See IST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: It gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could direct a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA would almost never allow vaccines become available to the public before issuing an Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) for the Vaccine Mandate, requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61,842, 61,554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, IST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 487 F.3d 1042, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay. It could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives; if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But just that aside, if there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: Cinda - Stop-Stage Briefing

All,
Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)
After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the ajsurd briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

Subject: Re: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group.

1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing ensues. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate, and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (as of that before December 10). Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few toes over the line (or even entire limbs). It probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely know, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The timetable here virtually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and outwitted still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court, but this case does have some unusually strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that belie the official reasoning, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought. Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving.
Drew

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

OSHA's mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing.

More in contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021) See ETS at 61339.

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to opt out of the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into <voluntarily> vaccinating. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employees will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will <have to> leave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the Holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing <alternative> is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

 Subject: RE: OMSA - Stay-Stage Briefing

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OMSA isn't "requiring" that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

| Body        | That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am attached in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.) On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask and test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly cites that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mut 46. It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in OCA's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with. Drew <hr/> From: Benjamin Flowers &lt;Benjamin.Flowers@OhioAG.gov&gt;     Sent: Tuesday, November 23, 2021 8:24:57 AM     To: Kuld Stone, Murrill, Elizabeth, Ensign, Drew; Joshua Richardson     Cc: Henry Whitaker, Bowdre, Barrett, Cori Mills@alaska.gov; Cori Mills@alaska.gov;     jesse.allison@alaska.gov; jesse.allison@alaska.gov; minnie.dixon@alaska.gov; minnie.dixon@alaska.gov;     Royssden, Beau, Daniel Seil, James Percival, Jeffrey DeSouza, Drew Waldeser, Ross Bergethon;     brian.kane@ag.idaho.gov; brian.kane@ag.idaho.gov; tom.fisher@ag.idaho.gov; tom.fisher@ag.idaho.gov;     klan.hudson@ag.in.gov; klan.hudson@ag.in.gov; jeff.chasey@ag.in.gov; jeff.chasey@ag.in.gov;     brant.laue@ag.ks.gov; brant.laue@ag.ks.gov; Chad.Meredith@ky.gov; Chad.Meredith@ky.gov;     Matt.Kuhn@ky.gov; Matt.Kuhn@ky.gov; St. John, Joseph;     john.sauer@ago.ms.gov; john.sauer@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Smith@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Smith@ago.ms.gov;     Scott.Stewart@ago.ms.gov; Scott.Stewart@ago.ms.gov;     Justin.Matheny@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Matheny@ago.ms.gov;     David.Devhurst@ms.gov; David.Devhurst@ms.gov;     Jim.Campbell@nd.gov; Jim.Campbell@nd.gov;     Daniel.E.Will@nd.gov; Daniel.E.Will@nd.gov;     Anthony.J.Galdier@nd.gov; Anthony.J.Galdier@nd.gov;     ustenehjem@nd.gov; ustenehjem@nd.gov;     masagsve@nd.gov; masagsve@nd.gov;     melissaholysk@ag.utah.gov; melissaholysk@ag.utah.gov;     zach.west@ag.utah.gov; zach.west@ag.utah.gov;     Emory.Smith, Kirk.Land@scag.gov; Kirk.Land@scag.gov;     Thomas.Hydrock@scag.gov; Thomas.Hydrock@scag.gov;     steven.blair@state.sd.us; steven.blair@state.sd.us;     Paul.SvefLund@state.sd.us; Paul.SvefLund@state.sd.us; Sarah K. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en banc brief can be pretty quickly repurposed into an opposition to this stay request. One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the Filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to move. Ben Flowers     Ohio Solicitor General     Office of Ohio Attorney General Dave Yost     Office number: (614) 728-7511     Cell phone: (614) 736-4938     benjamin.flowers@ohioattorneygeneral.gov Confidentiality Notice: This message is intended for use only by the individual or entity to whom or which it is addressed and may contain sensitive data and information that is privileged, confidential and/or otherwise exempt from disclosure under applicable law.   Since I know many of you are also litigating the CMS vaccine mandate, I wanted to pass along the preliminary injunction order we just got from the Eastern District of Missouri. We're still digesting this, but it appears that the judge limited the injunction's scope to all Medicare and Medicaid providers in the 10 plaintiff states. Even so, the decision is solid, so hopefully, you all can use it in your respective cases.

 Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

Thanks everyone. We now have heard back from: Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and West Virginia. Here is the current draft, which contains some small changes suggested by the various States.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 1, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate would go into full effect. COVID- 19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay- schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay- stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 24<sup>3</sup> with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits- briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners may need to pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Depé't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID- 19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have asked this Court to vacate the stay earlier, could have sought an expedited schedule before this Court at the same time, or could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Yet OSHA's eventual motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not even suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay suggests that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. No one stopped the agency from filing an earlier motion to vacate, either. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All,

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 19. The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 7, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners. The proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare ML to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 284<sup>3</sup> with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BOT Holdings, 2021 WL 5179381 at *9. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 251, 254 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it asks the Court to direct OSHA to set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 6 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Interim Emergency Standard for the Workplace mandating American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BOT Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 867 F.3d 484, 2021 WL 5272581, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay, though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives, if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's fault. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stage Briefing
 Importance: High

Here is an attached response. IBC's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at noon Eastern, if I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, IBC've copied the full text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,

Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOI about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61,642, 61,551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See IST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com., New York, 239 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: It gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could direct a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA would almost never allow vaccines become available to the public before issuing an Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) for the Vaccine Mandate, requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61,642, 61,554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, IST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 487 F.3d 1042, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay. It could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives; if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But just that aside, if there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: Cinda - Stop-Stage Briefing

All,
Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)
After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the ajsudr briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

 Subject: Re: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group.

1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing ensues. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate, and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (as I) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few toes over the line (or even entire limbs). It probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely know, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The timetable here virtually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and outwitted still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court, but this case does have some unusually strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that belie the official reasoning, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought. Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving.
Drew

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

OSHA's mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing:

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021) 8C. See ETS at 61339.

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to opt out of the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into <voluntarily> vaccinating. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employees will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will <have to> leave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the Holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing <alternative> is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OMSA isn't CTR requiring that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

I would add that the citation to 29 usc 669(a)(5) borders on sanctionable. Go take a look at the way they quote it on page 16 and then look at what the statute actually says.

| Body        | That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am attached in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.) On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask and test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly cites that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mut 46. It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in OCA's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with. Drew <hr/> From: Benjamin Flowers &lt;Benjamin.Flowers@OhioAG.gov&gt;     Sent: Tuesday, November 23, 2021 8:24:57 AM     To: Kuld Stone, Murrill, Elizabeth, Ensign, Drew; Joshua Richardson     Cc: Henry Whitaker, Bowdre, Barrett, Cori Mills@alaska.gov; Cori Mills@alaska.gov;     jesse.allison@alaska.gov; jesse.allison@alaska.gov; minnie.dixon@alaska.gov; minnie.dixon@alaska.gov;     Royssden, Beau, Daniel Seil, James Percival, Jeffrey DeSouza, Drew Waldeser, Ross Bergethon;     brian.kane@ag.idaho.gov; brian.kane@ag.idaho.gov; tom.fisher@ag.idaho.gov; tom.fisher@ag.idaho.gov;     klan.hudson@ag.in.gov; klan.hudson@ag.in.gov; jeff.chasey@ag.in.gov; jeff.chasey@ag.in.gov;     brant.laue@ag.ks.gov; brant.laue@ag.ks.gov; Chad.Meredith@ky.gov; Chad.Meredith@ky.gov;     Matt.Kuhn@ky.gov; Matt.Kuhn@ky.gov; St. John, Joseph;     john.sauer@ago.ms.gov; john.sauer@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Smith@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Smith@ago.ms.gov;     Scott.Stewart@ago.ms.gov; Scott.Stewart@ago.ms.gov;     Justin.Matheny@ago.ms.gov; Justin.Matheny@ago.ms.gov;     David.Devhurst@ms.gov; David.Devhurst@ms.gov;     Jim.Campbell@nd.gov; Jim.Campbell@nd.gov;     Daniel.E.Will@doj.nh.gov; Daniel.E.Will@doj.nh.gov;     Anthony.J.Galdier@doj.nh.gov; Anthony.J.Galdier@doj.nh.gov; ustenehjem@nd.gov; ustenehjem@nd.gov;     masagsve@nd.gov; masagsve@nd.gov; terbel@nd.gov; terbel@nd.gov; May.Mallman;     zach.west@ag.ok.gov; zach.west@ag.ok.gov; Emory.Smith, Kirk.Land@scag.gov; Kirk.Land@scag.gov;     Thomas.Hydrock@scag.gov; Thomas.Hydrock@scag.gov;     Steven.Blair@state.sd.us; Steven.Blair@state.sd.us;     Paul.SvefLund@state.sd.us; Paul.SvefLund@state.sd.us; Sarah.K.Campbell;     Andree.Blumstein@ag.tn.gov; Andree.Blumstein@ag.tn.gov; Grant.Dorfman; Benjamin.Wilson;     melissaholysk@ag.utah.gov; melissaholysk@ag.utah.gov; rcantrell@ag.utah.gov; rcantrell@ag.utah.gov;     Lindsay.A.See@wvago.gov; Lindsay.A.See@wvago.gov;     Thomas.E.Lampman@wvago.gov; Thomas.E.Lampman@wvago.gov; James.Kastt;     ryan.scheffhaas@wyo.gov; ryan.scheffhaas@wyo.gov; LaCour, Edmund;     nicholas.brown@arkansasag.gov; nicholas.brown@arkansasag.gov; Vincent.Wagner; Christopher.Baum; Stephen     Perry; Langhals, Jen, Beal, Michael [COP]; ryan.scheffhaas@wyo.gov; ryan.scheffhaas@wyo.gov;     david.mueve@state.us; david.mueve@state.us;     anthony.j.galdier@doj.nh.gov; anthony.j.galdier@doj.nh.gov;     Charles.Brasington@alaska.gov; Charles.Brasington@alaska.gov; Brandon J. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en banc brief can be pretty quickly repurposed into an opposition to this stay request. One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the Filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to move. Ben Flowers     Ohio Solicitor General     Office of Ohio Attorney General Dave Yost     Office number: (614) 728-7511     Cell phone: (614) 736-4938     benjamin.flowers@ohioattorneygeneral.gov Confidentiality Notice: This message is intended for use only by the individual or entity to whom or which it is addressed and may contain sensitive data and information that is privileged, confidential and/or otherwise exempt from disclosure under applicable law. Since I know many of you are also litigating the CMS vaccine mandate, I wanted to pass along the preliminary injunction order we just got from the Eastern District of Missouri. Wea€™re still digesting this, but it appears that the judge limited the injunctiona€™s scope to all Medicare and Medicaid providers in the 10 plaintiff states. Even so, the decision is solid, so hopefully, you all can use it in your respective cases.

Subject: OHSA - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

Thanks, everyone. We now have heard back from: Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and West Virginia. Here is the current draft, which contains some small changes suggested by the various States.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its a€œMotion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing.a€ That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHAa€™s request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate would go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 2&#x2013;3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners may need to pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could &#x201c;set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves.&#x201d; Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard for the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, &#x201c;F.4th&#x201d;, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have asked this Court to vacate the stay earlier, could have sought an expedited schedule before this Court at the same time, or could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Yet OSHA's eventual motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not even suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay suggests that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. No one stopped the agency from filing an earlier motion to vacate, either. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 19. The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not do so, by December 6. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either remand or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standards, 86 Fed. Reg. 61,402, 61,551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now. Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expediting OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 24C's with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See IST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Depek v. Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2020).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 5. Alternatively, it says, the Court could "dequeue a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves." Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 6 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standards, 86 Fed. Reg. 61,402, 61,554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, IST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.3d 1046, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay. Though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately, its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:05 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expedition is needed to protect employees. In fact, if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing
 Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from anyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the fully text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,

Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. The Motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief by December 6. OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has set to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279821 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could direct a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. But the petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Emergency Use Authorization for the COVID-19 Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279821 at *1, 15th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay, though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives; if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But put that aside. If there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf: if matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group:

1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at $3) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to stick a few bats over the line (or even entire limbs) if it probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye toward seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOI will likely have, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "unreliable." The one caveat here usually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored; it may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some uniquely strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that defy the official reporting, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought: Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not require COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing:

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021) ETS at 61529.

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into flexvoluntary vaccination. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employers will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing flexvoluntary is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says ONSA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost. Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

 I would add that the citation to 29 USC 609(a)(5) borders on sanctionable. Go take a look at the way they quote it on page 16 and then look at what the statute actually says.

Subject: Re: OHSa - Stay Stage Briefing

The approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 45:48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mot 45.

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in OSA's view under the ETS standard), that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

 Subject: OHSa - Stay Stage Briefing

All,

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the ex-bare brief can be pretty quickly reworked into an opposition to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to move.

Since I know many of you are also litigating the CMS vaccine mandate, I wanted to pass along the preliminary injunction order we just got from the Eastern District of Missouri. Wea€™re still digesting this, but it appears that the judge limited the injunctiona€™s scope to all Medicare and Medicaid providers in the 10 plaintiff states. Even so, the decision is solid, so hopefully, you all can use it in your respective cases.

Subject: OHSa - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

Thanks, everyone. We now have heard back from: Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and West Virginia. Here is the current draft, which contains some small changes suggested by the various states.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its a€œMotion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing.a€ That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHAa€™s request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate would go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 2&#x2013;3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners may need to pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard for the Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have asked this Court to vacate the stay earlier, could have sought an expedited schedule before this Court at the same time, or could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Yet OSHA's eventual motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not even suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay suggests that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. No one stopped the agency from filing an earlier motion to vacate, either. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other States. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its &#246;Amotion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing.&#246; That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 19. The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now. Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expediting OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.3d 1046, 1051 n.1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), cert. denied, 593 U.S. 1000 (2021). If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Deak v. Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2020).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court &#246;to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups&#246; and to require each group &#246;to file a single briefing.&#246; See Motion to Amend Schedule at 5. Alternatively, it says, the Court could &#246;set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves.&#246; Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 6 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an &#246;emergency&#246; standard &#246;the Vaccine Mandate&#246; requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing, Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.3d 1046, 1051 n.1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay &#246;though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:05 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expedition is needed to protect employees &#246; lives, if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stage Briefing
 Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from anyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the fully text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,

Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. The Motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has set to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 2021 WL 527981 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could direct a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. But the petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Emergency Use Authorization for the COVID-19 Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 427 A.2d 1147, 2021 WL 527981 at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay, though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives; if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But put that aside. If there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf: if matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

 Subject: RE: CMA - New Stage Briefing

All,

Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)

After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the aloud briefing schedule the DOJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule does not allow for that.

I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group:

1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at $3) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong temptation for the Administration to pick a few bats over the line (or even entire lines); it probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye toward seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedited basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOI will likely know, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "unreasonable." The one caveat here usually ensures sloppiness in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally by depositions. Discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored; it may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some uniquely strong evidence of pretext and naked political calculations that defy the official reporting, and the deponents could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought: Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving.
Drew

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not require COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing:

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021) ETS at 61529.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into flexitarian or hybrid vaccination. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employers will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing flexitarian is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. (This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says ONSA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost.) Not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

Subject: Re: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing

The approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 45:48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Mot 46.

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in OSHA's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

 Subject: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing

All

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the ex-bare brief can be pretty quickly reuploaded into an objection to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to say that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for whomever would like to move.

Since I know many of you are also litigating the CMS vaccine mandate, I wanted to pass along the preliminary injunction order we just got from the Eastern District of Missouri. Wea™™e still digesting this, but it appears that the judge limited the injunction™™s scope to all Medicare and Medicaid providers in the 10 plaintiff states. Even so, the decision is solid, so hopefully, you all can use it in your respective cases.

Subject: OHS - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

Thanks, everyone. We now have heard back from: Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and West Virginia. Here is the current draft, which contains some small changes suggested by the various States.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate would go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 2-3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners may need to pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard—the Vaccine Mandate—requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have asked this Court to vacate the stay earlier, could have sought an expedited schedule before this Court at the same time, or could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Yet OSHA's eventual motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not even suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay suggests that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. No one stopped the agency from filing an earlier motion to vacate, either. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All,

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other states. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the OSHA on the merits by December 19. The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61524 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare MT to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 284<sup>3</sup> with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the vaccine mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., DePaepe of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2954, 1374 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could "set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves." Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 6 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard "the vaccine mandate" requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61524 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the vaccine mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 67 F.3d 848, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay, though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed to a matter of hours.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If there is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it is only itself to blame.

 Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay/Stay Briefing
 Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the full text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,
 Ben Flowers

P.S. I reached out to counsel for the DOI about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief by December 8, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed response to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court in this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See 807 Holdings, 2021 WL 527981, at *9. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dist. of Col. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 1. Alternatively, if any of the Court could direct a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard. The Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or stay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, 807 Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.3d 1041, 2021 WL 527981, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay. Though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately, its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives; if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But that aside, if there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

 Subject: RE: QMSA - Stay Stage Briefing

All,
 Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)
 After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the abridged briefing schedule the DCJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.
 I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group:

1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at 51) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong impetus for the Administration to stick a few lips over the line (or even entire limbs) if probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedient basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely haul, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The amenable here virtually ensures it happens in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions, discovery of course would be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some unusually strong evidence of process and naked political calculations that defy the official reasoning, and the depositions could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought: Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving.
 Drew

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing.

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021) & See ETS at 61529.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into (voluntary) vaccination. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employers will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing alternative is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OSHA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost. I'm not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

Subject: Re: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Most do.

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. Put simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in DOJ's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

 Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

All,

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en banc brief can be pretty quickly repositioned into an opposition to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to see that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission form for someone you'd like to move.

Since I know many of you are also litigating the CMS vaccine mandate, I wanted to pass along the preliminary injunction order we just got from the Eastern District of Missouri. Wea™™e still digesting this, but it appears that the judge limited the injunction™™s scope to all Medicare and Medicaid providers in the 10 plaintiff states. Even so, the decision is solid, so hopefully, you all can use it in your respective cases.

Subject: OHS - Stay-Stage Briefing - UPDATED

Thanks, everyone. We now have heard back from: Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and West Virginia. Here is the current draft, which contains some small changes suggested by the various States.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons. First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate would go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay-schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mt. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 2-3 with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners may need to pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could set a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an emergency standard—the Vaccine Mandate—requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing; Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA, 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay though it could have asked this Court to vacate the stay earlier, could have sought an expedited schedule before this Court at the same time, or could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Yet OSHA's eventual motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not even suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay suggests that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If time is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. No one stopped the agency from filing an earlier motion to vacate, either. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All,

Here is a revised version, which incorporates some changes from other states. Thanks to Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas for joining already.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, and without any consultation with Petitioners, OSHA filed its Memorandum to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing.<sup>1</sup> That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief, by December 6, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the OSHA on the merits by December 19. The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least five reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 81402, 81354 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the proposed stay schedule is inequitable. The burdens of OSHA's suggested stay-stage briefing schedule would fall exclusively on the petitioners: the proposed schedule shortens the petitioners' response period by five days, while expanding OSHA's reply period from three days to four. Compare Mem. to Amend Briefing Schedule, Doc. 131 at 284<sup>3</sup> with Scheduling Order, Doc. 141. If OSHA is going to demand that everyone else move faster, it should at least be willing to do the same.

Third, the merits briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court. In this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the vaccine mandate are pretextual. See BST Holdings, 2021 WL 5279381 at *5. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., DePaepe, 2019 WL 13935, Ct. 2954, 1274 (2019).

Fourth, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups<sup>4</sup> and to require each group to file a single brief.<sup>5</sup> See Motion to Amend Schedule at 3. Alternatively, it says, the Court could allocate a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves.<sup>6</sup> Id. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners, in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 6 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fifth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Emergency Standard<sup>7</sup> the Vaccine Mandate<sup>8</sup> requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or pay for expensive weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 81402, 81354 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BST Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, BCF "A/B/C", 2021 WL 5279381, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay<sup>9</sup> though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately. Its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed to a matter of hours.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think expediency is needed to protect employees' lives; if it really believed that, it would have issued the Vaccine Mandate months ago, and filed for relief in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. If there is now short before the arbitrary deadline of January 4, it is only because of OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it is only itself to blame.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

Importance: High

Here is an attached response. It's very short, because there is not much to say. The sooner we can file the better. So please let me know if you'd like to sign by Monday, November 29, at Noon Eastern. If I hear from everyone today, I can file today. For the convenience of those who are traveling, I've copied the full text of the response into this email below.

Sincerely,

Ben Flowers

P.S.: I reached out to counsel for the DOJ about the administrative record. I haven't heard back yet, hence the highlighting.

At 4:05 PM on the day before Thanksgiving, OSHA filed its Motion to Amend Schedule for Stay Briefing and to Set Schedule for Merits Briefing. That motion proposes a schedule that would require the parties to fully brief by December 8, OSHA's request to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay. Further, the schedule would require the parties to fully brief the case on the merits by December 29.

The Court should reject OSHA's motion in full, for at least four reasons.

First, this lightning-speed approach to these issues is unnecessary. The current schedule allows this Court to either vacate the stay, or not, by mid-December. That will leave the parties with ample time to ask the Supreme Court to either reinstate or vacate the stay before January 4, which is the date on which the Vaccine Mandate will go into full effect. COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61551 (Nov. 5, 2021). If OSHA is not content to wait a few weeks for a ruling on its motion to dissolve the stay, it can go to the Supreme Court now.

Second, the merits-briefing schedule that OSHA proposes will not allow for full development of the issues before this Court in this challenge to OSHA's administrative action, the petitioners are entitled to a complete administrative record. OSHA has yet to provide that record and, in conversations with counsel for the States, would not commit to providing it by any date. Depending on what the administrative record says, the petitioners will pursue discovery. Here, public statements from federal officials suggest that OSHA's stated reasons for promulgating the Vaccine Mandate are pretextual. See BT Holdings, 2021 WL 527981, at *9. If the administrative record does not adequately account for the petitioners' concerns regarding pretext, the petitioners will pursue, and will likely be entitled to, discovery. See, e.g., Dist. of Col. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2574 (2019).

Third, the proposed schedule is impractical for another reason: it gives the petitioners almost no time to coordinate their filings with this Court. OSHA asks this Court to direct the petitioners to organize themselves into groups and to require each group to file a single brief. See Motion to Amend Schedule at 1. Alternatively, if any of the Court could direct a total word limit and allow petitioners to divide that total briefing among themselves. The petitioners have no objection to this method of proceeding. But it is not feasible for the many petitioners in this case to confer and come to an agreement in time to file opening merits briefs by the December 8 due date that OSHA has proposed.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, OSHA should not be able to demand expedition in order to resolve an emergency of its own making. OSHA waited almost a year after vaccines became available to the public before issuing an Emergency Standard. The Vaccine Mandate requiring American workers to either vaccinate themselves or stay for expensive, weekly testing. See COVID-19 Vaccination and Testing: Emergency Temporary Standard, 86 Fed. Reg. 61402, 61554 (Nov. 5, 2021). After the Fifth Circuit stayed enforcement of the Vaccine Mandate, BT Holdings, LLC v. OSHA, 47 F.3d 1041, 2021 WL 527981, at *1 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021), OSHA waited a full eleven days before seeking relief from that stay. Though it could have gone to the Supreme Court immediately, its motion to dissolve the Fifth Circuit's stay did not suggest any briefing schedule. Then, after moving to dissolve the stay, OSHA waited until 4:00 PM on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to move to expedite the resolution of its motion to vacate and to propose a schedule under which merits briefing must be completed in a matter of weeks.

OSHA's delay shows that the agency does not really think the Vaccine Mandate is needed to save lives; if it really believed that, it would have filed in the Supreme Court within hours of the Fifth Circuit's decision. But that aside, if there is an urgent need to ensure the Vaccine Mandate is in force by January 4, it is only because OSHA's sloth. No one stopped OSHA from issuing the Vaccine Mandate sooner, allowing more time for judicial review. And no one stopped the Solicitor General from seeking immediate relief at the Supreme Court on OSHA's behalf. If matters are now progressing more slowly than OSHA would like, it has only itself to blame.

All,
Happy Thanksgiving. (And go Bucks!)
After sleeping on it, I think it would be appropriate to file a very short opposition to the abridged briefing schedule the DCJ proposed. In that response, we can say that we plan to pursue discovery and the proposed schedule doesn't allow for that.
I will draft something Friday and send it around. It would be best to file Monday morning, I think. Let me know if you have any concerns.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing

COMMON INTEREST PRIVILEGE

Hi all,

Now that we have a briefing schedule for the stay motions, I wanted to flag a few issues for potential discussion/action among our multi-state group:

1. Enforcement of the Stay. Given the briefing schedule, it is likely a safe assumption that the Fifth Circuit's stay will remain in force through at least December 10 when briefing wraps up. That period now includes the initial compliance date for businesses. The Fifth Circuit also ordered that OSHA "take no steps to implement or enforce the Mandate," and the Administration is unlikely to obtain the clarification they seek (at 51) of that before December 10. Given all of this, there is probably going to be a strong impetus for the Administration to stick a few lips over the line (or even entire limbs) if probably makes sense for us to be vigilant about what OSHA and the White House are doing, with an eye towards seeking enforcement of the stay if necessary.
2. Administrative Record. It may be useful to seek production of the administrative record on a highly expedient basis, so that we could cite to it in our December 7 opposition briefs (or in supplemental briefing by December 10). DOJ will likely haul, but I suspect there may be a lot of good material in there for showing arbitrary and capricious decision-making, and they are the ones crying "emergency." The amenable here virtually ensures it happens in the administrative record, particularly as OSHA would have been focused on scrubbing the formal rule. Even if we don't get the record in time for the stay briefing in the Sixth Circuit, it may be very useful for subsequent merits briefing and/or Supreme Court applications.
3. Potential Discovery. It may also make sense to seek discovery here, principally depositions, discovery of course used to be disfavored in APA cases, pre-Census case, and putatively still is somewhat disfavored. It may also be harder to get such discovery from a circuit court. But this case does have some unusually strong evidence of process and naked political calculations that defy the official reasoning, and the depositions could easily crumble in a manner that would be very helpful.

Food for thought: Please let us know if it would be helpful to discuss by phone or email further.

Have a great Thanksgiving.
Drew

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay Stage Briefing

Charles, you are right about OSHA's intent to coerce people into taking the vaccine rather than submit to testing. And OSHA makes this explicit:

As mentioned above, requiring employers to pay for workplace protections makes it more likely that employees will take advantage of that protection, and in this ETS, OSHA intends to strongly encourage employees to choose vaccination, not regular COVID-19 testing. Because employees who choose to remain unvaccinated will generally be required to pay for their own COVID-19 testing, this standard creates a financial incentive for those employees to become fully vaccinated and avoid that cost. See ETS at 61532.

Incidentally, OSHA also notes grudgingly that even the CDC recommends that asymptomatic people should be exempt from testing.

In contrast, the CDC recommends that fully vaccinated employees with no symptoms and no known exposure should be exempt from routine testing programs (CDC, May 4, 2021) & See ETS at 61529.

Subject: RE: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

To my mind, the cost of testing is one of the most insidious aspects of the ETS. Unlike every similar standard I can think of, the ETS allows employers to put the cost of testing on employees. I do not think this was an afterthought or an oversight. If it was an afterthought or oversight, then OSHA would most likely default to the standard provision placing cost on the employer. The testing alternative appears at first blush to be an escape valve, and I think OSHA does not want to disturb that first impression by drawing attention to the testing provision.

OSHA has good reason for wanting to avoid highlighting the testing alternative. Instead of an escape valve that offers a less restrictive alternative, the testing provision seems intentionally onerous and designed to coerce workers into (voluntary) vaccination. While some states, like Louisiana, have statutes that prohibit employers from putting the cost of compliance on employees, this is not the case across the board. While the potential cost burden on employers would be substantial, most employers will simply not be able to afford the cost of testing over an extended period. Employees will cave and vaccinate rather than assume the cost of testing right before the holidays, where money is already extremely tight for most households.

The testing alternative is the best example of a wolf in sheep's clothing that I have encountered in my career.

I am also admitted in the 6th.

The rule has little to no analysis on the testing requirement because I think it was largely an afterthought.

Assuming for the sake of argument that testing is a reasonable requirement in theory, in practice the volume of tests would be virtually impossible to conduct even if you could find the tests (which is impossible presently).

It also would be very costly. Louisiana has a labor law that prohibits employers from imposing the costs of medical testing on an employee. This does not directly conflict with the rule, as the rule only says OSHA isn't requiring that employers bear the cost. I'm not sure other states have this rule.

I have a memo on the 4th amendment implications of testing if you want it.

I would add that the citation to 29 USC 669(a)(5) borders on sanctionable. Go take a look at the way they quote it on page 16 and then look at what the statute actually says.

Subject: Re: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

That approach works for Arizona. Multiple state briefs will probably annoy the court and diminish the impact of the individual ones. (I am admitted in the Sixth, and can sign for Arizona.)

On the merits, I am surprised that OSHA made the argument (at 46-48) for narrowing the stay if it is not vacated by leaving the mask-and-test requirement in place while staying the vaccination part. OSHA expressly calls that a "reasonably effective alternative." Misc.46.

It is difficult to understand how that is not a concession that the mask-and-test requirement can operate sufficiently without the vaccination component, and thus the latter is not actually "necessary" to prevent a "grave danger." OSHA's backup request essentially concedes the lack of necessity. But simply, if an aspect of the rule is severable and the remainder still suffices (in DOJ's view) under the ETS standard, that aspect was never actually "necessary" to begin with.

Subject: OSHA - Stay-Stage Briefing

All,

As you may have seen, OSHA finally got around to moving to dissolve the stay. The Sixth Circuit will presumably issue a briefing schedule. Provided the States would like to stick together, the Sixth Circuit coalition is happy to lead the charge. Indeed, the en banc brief can be pretty quickly repositioned into an opposition to this stay request.

One important point: the Sixth Circuit told us that, going forward, it will need signatures from each State or the filing State to see that it has permission to file for everyone. If you have someone admitted here, we can add the signature. If not, we'd be happy to sign the admission forms for whomever would like to move.

I'm working on a story about U.S. District Judge Matthew T. Schelp's order today that granted a preliminary injunction to 10 states, alleging that the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services' vaccine mandate could risk exacerbating a healthcare worker shortage. Would the North Dakota attorney general's office provide a comment for this story? I'm working on a story about U.S. District Judge Matthew T. Schelp's order today that granted a preliminary injunction to 10 states, alleging that the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services' vaccine mandate could risk exacerbating a healthcare worker shortage. Would the North Dakota attorney general's office provide a comment for this story? My deadline is 2 p.m. MST/4 p.m. EST today. Thank you,         Beverly         --         Beverly Banks         General Assignment Reporter    111 West 19th Street         5th Floor         New York, NY 10011         304-650-6662         Twitter: @BevCBanks |

I'm working on a story about U.S. District Judge Matthew T. Schelp's order today that granted a preliminary injunction to 10 states, alleging that the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services' vaccine mandate could risk exacerbating a healthcare worker shortage. Would the North Dakota attorney general's office provide a comment for this story? My deadline is 2 p.m. MST/4 p.m. EST today. Thank you,Beverly ---Beverly BanksGeneral Assignment Reporter111 West 19th Street5th FloorNew York, NY 10011304-050-0602Twitter: @BevCBanks |

I'm working on a story about U.S. District Judge Matthew T. Seibel's order today that granted a preliminary injunction to 10 states, alleging that the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services' vaccine mandate could risk exacerbating a healthcare worker shortage. Would the North Dakota attorney general's office provide a comment for this story? My deadline is 2 p.m. MST/4 p.m. EST today. Thank you,Beverly ...Beverly BanksGeneral Assignment Reporter111 West 19th Street5th FloorNew York, NY 10011304-050-0602Twitter: @BevCBanks |

Subject: 2022 Strategy Reviews

Agency Leaders,

I am excited to announce the start of a new budget cycle for the 2023-25 biennium. We will once again begin with a discussion of your agency strategy. The budget is a tool to help you achieve your strategic goals, so our budget process begins with a focus on your strategic vision.

As we seek to continually improve the strategy review process, we have provided a variety of new resources to assist you:

- Strategic Planning Framework – Step-by-step, practical guide to developing a comprehensive strategic plan.
- Strategic Planning Template – Template to organize your strategic plan as you build it.
- Action Plan Template – Template to translate your strategic plan into actionable steps.
- Strategy Review One-page Template – Fillable template to create a one-page info sheet about your agency to be used for the strategy review, legislative presentations, recruiting, public information, etc. Note that the first "hidden" page contains instructions.
- 2022 Strategy Review PowerPoint Template – Updated, simplified strategy review template to guide your preparation for the 2022 strategy review.

All of the above resources are available on Team ND Connect for your reference.

You will be receiving a strategy review invite from Lori Sondag with a meeting time between late February and the end of March 2022. The meeting invite will go to your agency leader and chief fiscal contact. Please forward to others within your agency you would like to include.

Please send to Lori Sondag:

- Your agency's Strategy Review One-page Template, by January 14, 2022

AND

- An electronic version of your agency's 2022 Strategy Review PowerPoint Template, no later than the day prior to your scheduled meeting

Feel free to reach out to me, Molly Herrington, or your budget analyst if you have any questions or need assistance in the strategic planning process or your preparation for the strategy review. Thank you for your thoughtful work as you prepare for our strategic review and discussion. We look forward to meeting with you.

We will once again begin with a discussion of your agency strategy. The budget is a tool to help you achieve your strategic goals, so our budget process begins with a focus on your strategic vision. As we seek to continually improve the strategy review process, we have provided a variety of new resources to assist you: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Strategic Planning Framework – Step-by-step, practical guide to developing a comprehensive strategic plan.</li> <li>• Strategic Planning Template – Template to organize your strategic plan as you build it.</li> <li>• Action Plan Template – Template to translate your strategic plan into actionable steps.</li> <li>• Strategy Review One-page Template – Fillable template to create a one-page info sheet about your agency to be used for the strategy review, legislative presentations, recruiting, public information, etc. Note that the first "hidden" page contains instructions.</li> <li>• 2022 Strategy Review PowerPoint Template – Updated, simplified strategy review template to guide your preparation for the 2022 strategy review.</li> </ul> All of the above resources are available on Team ND Connect for your reference. You will be receiving a strategy review invite from Lori Sondag with a meeting time between late February and the end of March 2022. The meeting invite will go to your agency leader and chief fiscal contact. Please forward to others within your agency you would like to include. Please send to Lori Sondag: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Your agency's Strategy Review One-page Template, by January 14, 2022</li> </ul> AND <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• An electronic version of your agency's 2022 Strategy Review PowerPoint Template, no later than the day prior to your scheduled meeting</li> </ul> Feel free to reach out to me, Molly Herrington, or your budget analyst if you have any questions or need assistance in the strategic planning process or your preparation for the strategy review. Thank you for your thoughtful work as you prepare for our strategic review and discussion. We look forward to meeting with you. Joe Joe Morrisette, CPA Director         701.328.4606 • jmorrissette@nd.gov • www.nd.gov |

AG Ellison will be attending virtually and we envision you and AG Miller leading a discussion with him. We are glad to have questions prepared for you if you'd like. Below are the details of the fireside chat. Please give me a call if you have any questions about the panel you'd like to discuss. Session Time: December 7th at 1:15-1:45 ETTitle: Fireside Chat with Attorney General Keith Ellison Following Initial Prosecution of the Death of George FloydDescription: Whether due to legislative mandates, conflicts of interest, or public pressure, more attorneys general are being tasked with providing guidance or overseeing police use of force and officer-involved shooting cases. These cases often are high-profile matters that create unique opportunities and challenges for attorneys general. Most notably in 2020, the death of George Floyd at the hands of police officers in Minneapolis garnered an enormous domestic and international response and sparked a dialogue about police use of force and afforded legal protections, race, and community expectations. Join attorneys general during this fireside chat conversing with Attorney General Keith Ellison as he shares his experience leading this prosecution and the critical role that attorneys general may play when these incidents arise. V/r,Chris Chris TothExecutive DirectorNational Association of Attorneys General1850 M Street, NW, 12th FloorWashington, DC 20036202.326.6021 officectoth@naag.orgwww.naag.org  |

AG Ellison will be attending virtually and we envision you and AG Miller leading a discussion with him. We are glad to have questions prepared for you if you'd like. Below are the details of the fireside chat. Please give me a call if you have any questions about the panel you'd like to discuss. Session Time: December 7th at 1:15-1:45 ETTitle: Fireside Chat with Attorney General Keith Ellison Following Initial Prosecution of the Death of George FloydDescription: Whether due to legislative mandates, conflicts of interest, or public pressure, more attorneys general are being tasked with providing guidance or overseeing police use of force and officer-involved shooting cases. These cases often are high-profile matters that create unique opportunities and challenges for attorneys general. Most notably in 2020, the death of George Floyd at the hands of police officers in Minneapolis garnered an enormous domestic and international response and sparked a dialogue about police use of force and afforded legal protections, race, and community expectations. Join attorneys general during this fireside chat conversing with Attorney General Keith Ellison as he shares his experience leading this prosecution and the critical role that attorneys general may play when these incidents arise. V/r,Chris Chris TothExecutive DirectorNational Association of Attorneys General1850 M Street, NW, 12th FloorWashington, DC 20036202.326.6021 officectoth@naag.orgwww.naag.org  |

Wayne, did you get a chance to review this link?
This is what I tried to send you just before thanksgiving.

please read the attached article, paying closer attention to the final paragraph.

It is my understanding that even though we passed HB 1514 during the special session, a physician in Jamestown, ND was dismissed.

Carved out of 1514, much to my dismay, was the requirement for hospitals to administer Off-label FDA approved drugs to treat COVID when a patient or family member requested the right-to-try.

I would appreciate any help you can lend to this dire situation.

Courtney is the lead attorney on the case...and I believe we are waiting for a decision from the court – Judge Feland. So, maybe not the best timing unless Courtney has a different opinion...and I would suspect that the Judge is sensitive to comments made by parties to the media.

Hello Wayne,

Is it possible for you to talk about the Energy Transfer, Tigerswan document case with me?

Thanks,

Courtney is the lead attorney on the case...and I believe we are waiting for a decision from the court – Judge Feland. So, maybe not the best timing unless Courtney has a different opinion...and I would suspect that the Judge is sensitive to comments made by parties to the media.

Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Curtis Olafson

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of

| Body | Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis Olafson Olafson Consulting LLC Public Policy and Political Consulting North Dakota State Senate (2006-2012) Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883) 13041 84th St NE Edinburg, ND 58227 701-265-2356 Cell https://www.olafsonconsulting.com/ colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Curtis Olafson

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of

| Body | Countries, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis Olafson Olafson Consulting LLC Public Policy and Political Consulting North Dakota State Senate (2006-2012) Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883) 13041 84th St NE Edinburg, ND 58227 701-265-2356 Cell https://www.olafsonconsulting.com/ colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Curtis Olafson

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange

| Body | presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis OlafsonOlafson Consulting LLCPublic Policy and Political ConsultingNorth Dakota State Senate (2006-2012)Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883)13041 84th St NEEdinburg, ND 58227701-265-2356 Cellhttps://www.olafsonconsulting.com/colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Curtis Olafson

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange

| Body | presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis OlafsonOlafson Consulting LLCPublic Policy and Political ConsultingNorth Dakota State Senate (2006-2012)Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883)13041 84th St NEEdinburg, ND 58227701-265-2356 Cellhttps://www.olafsonconsulting.com/colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. Colleen Rowe, Barnes County Good Morning: I'm happy to report that MFCU has finalized another cases. Yesterday Colleen Rowe an LPN plead guilty to a class A Misdemeanor Reckless Endangerment. She was not the employee who caused the injuries to the victim but she knew that the victim had a broken leg and did not treat it or the extreme pain the patient was in. Rowe also failed to contact a doctor for further orders and failed to report the incident to other staff. This left the injury undetected through a shift change. The Board of Nursing also took action against Rowe. A shout out to Bre and Kayla for their great work on this case. Body

We should follow the next meeting of this Advisory Council, and make sure we have someone in attendance when this issue comes up.
I believe this is a public entity, and therefore it would be a public meeting.
Wayne

Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Curtis Olafson

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange

| Body | presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis Olafson Olafson Consulting LLC Public Policy and Political Consulting North Dakota State Senate (2006-2012) Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883) 13041 84th St NE Edinburg, ND 58227 701-265-2356 Cell https://www.olafsonconsulting.com/ colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. We should follow the next meeting of this Advisory Council, and make sure we have someone in attendance when this issue comes up.
I believe this is a public entity, and therefore it would be a public meeting.

Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Curtis Olafson

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange

Body presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem.

We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group.

The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms.

When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me.

They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse.

Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths.

Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time.

There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: <https://med.und.edu/service/index.html> With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need.

I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves.

I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have.

I look forward to your reply.

After today's great programming, take the opportunity to get out and enjoy all that Santa Fe has to offer. Visit the great art and history museums in the city, and enjoy some of the delicious local food and drink.

A photograph of a woman dressed in a blue cape and a black patterned dress, standing on a sidewalk. She is holding a blue bag. To her right is a sign that says 'SANTA FE' in red letters on a white background with purple accents. The background shows trees and a building.

However, one of the reasons it is so lengthy is due to the confusion outside counsel is creating. This same response could essentially be used for other legislators or persons who inquire, etc. It is fairly time consuming for us to continue to respond to individual inquiries and we want a template for our responses to political subdivisions, or other inquiries how the monies will be used, etc. We can use this one as a template. Parrell Parrell D. Good morning Jon et al,

To clarify our request, our group would like to be put on the agenda for one of our attorneys to do a presentation at the next meeting of the Advisory Council. We are hoping that will be relatively soon as there are deadlines looming for decisions relating to the opioid settlement policies.

The purpose of the presentation would be to provide the most current information on the litigation settlements and to present for discussion and consideration the possibility of UND SMHS taking on a role similar to what has been adopted in Mississippi, wherein the University of Mississippi Medical Center will receive settlement funds and implement opioid abatement and treatment programs throughout the state.

Also, to further clarify, if the UND SMHS would be agreeable to a similar role as has been adopted in Mississippi, the SMHS would not be "taking a position" or be a "part of any litigation."

The attached MOU edited and tailored for North Dakota details in Section B, subsection 1(c) the funds that would be allocated to the SMHS and the role that it would play in the abatement and treatment efforts. This plan would be aimed at helping cities and counties in North Dakota establish an effort to help them deal with ongoing opioid abuse and addiction.

Please do not hesitate to reach out to me if you have any additional questions or would like further clarification.

Regards,

Curtis Olafson

Curt: thank you for reaching out to the NDSMHS Advisory Committee with your request to be added to the agenda of a subsequent Advisory Committee meeting. Although it would be interesting to hear the reasoning and progress your group has experienced, I am a little confused as to our role in taking a position or being part of any litigation in this regard.
Is this strictly informational or do you have other expectations of the Advisory Committee? I believe that question needs to be clarified prior to any further conversation.
Thanks Curt and I hope to hear back from you soon.

Jon

Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange

| Body        | presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis Olafson         Olafson Consulting LLC         Public Policy and Political Consulting         North Dakota State Senate (2006-2012)         Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883)         13041 84th St NE         Edinburg, ND 58227         701-265-2356 Cell https://www.olafsonconsulting.com/ colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. Good morning Jon et al,

To clarify our request, our group would like to be put on the agenda for one of our attorneys to do a presentation at the next meeting of the Advisory Council. We are hoping that will be relatively soon as there are deadlines looming for decisions relating to the opioid settlement policies.

The purpose of the presentation would be to provide the most current information on the litigation settlements and to present for discussion and consideration the possibility of UND SMHS taking on a role similar to what has been adopted in Mississippi, wherein the University of Mississippi Medical Center will receive settlement funds and implement opioid abatement and treatment programs throughout the state.

Also, to further clarify, if the UND SMHS would be agreeable to a similar role as has been adopted in Mississippi, the SMHS would not be "taking a position" or be a "part of any litigation."

The attached MOU edited and tailored for North Dakota details in Section B, subsection 1(c) the funds that would be allocated to the SMHS and the role that it would play in the abatement and treatment efforts. This plan would be aimed at helping cities and counties in North Dakota establish an effort to help them deal with ongoing opioid abuse and addiction.

Please do not hesitate to reach out to me if you have any additional questions or would like further clarification.

Regards,

Curtis Olafson

Curt: thank you for reaching out to the NDSMHS Advisory Committee with your request to be added to the agenda of a subsequent Advisory Committee meeting. Although it would be interesting to hear the reasoning and progress your group has experienced, I am a little confused as to our role in taking a position or being part of any litigation in this regard.
Is this strictly informational or do you have other expectations of the Advisory Committee? I believe that question needs to be clarified prior to any further conversation.
Thanks Curt and I hope to hear back from you soon.

Jon

Senator Mathern,

Thank you for your response and for your outreach to Dean Wynne. I look forward to further discussions with you and your colleagues.

After having had the privilege of serving with you in the Senate for 6 years, it comes as no surprise to me that you are interested in this proposal. You always have the best interests of the people in your heart, especially people who need help.

Thank you for the note. Yes the opioid crisis has been in North Dakota too!

I am bringing this to the attention of Dean Wynne by way of this response.

Dear friends,

I am writing today regarding your position of service on the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences Advisory Council.

You may be aware that I spent the better part of two years working with a consortium of three large national law firms assisting them with opioid litigation outreach here in North Dakota. My role in the process was to arrange

| Body        | presentations before county commissions, city commissions and councils, the North Dakota Association of Counties, the North Dakota League of Cities and Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. We were very successful in our effort to demonstrate to North Dakota counties and cities the wisdom in pursuing their own cases. The law firms represent North Dakota clients on a contingency basis at a recovery percentage that is quite modest. Twenty-six North Dakota counties and three cities signed on as litigants with our group. The consortium I represented included the following firms: Fears Nachawati, Ferrer Poirot Wansbrough, and Motley Rice. These are all large, nationally recognized and highly-respected law firms. When considering whether I should help this group in North Dakota, I was agreeable to do so after being given strict assurances that the litigation they would be pursuing would not target medical providers or hospitals and would instead be focused on opioid manufacturers, distributors, and large national chain pharmacies. They have stayed true to their word with me. They also assured me that they would be focusing on recovering financial damages that had been incurred by their clients as a direct result of the opioid crisis. Further, they have been unwavering in their focus on recovering resources to provide abatement of the problem and ongoing treatment for our citizens suffering from opioid addiction and abuse. Given your position on the Advisory Council and your work in the Legislature, you certainly know that North Dakota was not immune to losing many lives-and great suffering for others-from opioid abuse. In one small low population North Dakota county where I testified before the county commission, the sheriff also testified and said the county had four relatively recent overdose deaths. Throughout the entire process, Attorney General Stenehjem has advised North Dakota political subdivisions that they should not file their own cases and should leave the litigation entirely in the hands of the State. That advice from the AG's office is continuing to this day with outreach communications coming from his office, asking current litigants to opt into the settlements and allow the State to control the proceeds. Our attorneys are advising against that action at this time. There has already been an idea adopted in the State of Mississippi that deserves study and consideration here in North Dakota as a sensible compromise for the disbursement of funds that will result from the settlements. In that Mississippi model, the University of Mississippi Medical Center's Center for Addiction Medicine will receive an allocation of 70% of the settlement funds and dedicate that funding to providing opioid addiction abatement and treatment programs. Whether it is here in North Dakota or in Mississippi, smaller rural counties typically do not have the resources on their own to launch such efforts. The UND SMHS appears to already have in place an extensive outreach program throughout the state as detailed here: https://med.und.edu/service/index.html With the considerable resources that would become available under such an agreement, those entities might be the ideal avenue to help North Dakota citizens in need. I have attached the Mississippi agreement and a draft of a modified agreement tailored for North Dakota for consideration by North Dakota officials, including yourselves. I would respectfully request that a presentation by our attorneys be scheduled at the next meeting of your Advisory Council to provide information on this proposal and to answer questions that you may have. I look forward to your reply. Curtis OlafsonOlafson Consulting LLCPublic Policy and Political ConsultingNorth Dakota State Senate (2006-2012)Olafson Farm and Ranch, (Est. 1883)13041 84th St NEEdinburg, ND 58227701-265-2356 Cellhttps://www.olafsonconsulting.com/colafson@polarcomm.com The information contained in this message is confidential, protected from disclosure and may be legally privileged. Hi Wayne:

I have two important issues to visit with you about:

1. The Consumer Fraud situation with my brother-in-law, Leonard Mosbrucker, that I called you about last week.
2. Considering a Press Release from your office regarding where we are at in ND with respect to all of the recent Court Rulings on the Vaccine mandates. Most of ND citizens I think would be grateful to your office—you—if you issued a “white paper” or press release clarifying everything.

I am available by cell phone all the time: 701-799-9000

Thanks, Wayne.

Hi all,

Louisiana had circulated an email discussing the Head Start vaccine mandate and had asserted that they would be filing opposition. I am wondering if anyone in the 8th Circuit was working on putting together a case on the Head Start matter or whether states were considering joining Louisiana's lawsuit.

Thanks.

Hoeven is working on. I have some concerns with the law that relate to section lines....see below. It looks like Jodi wants me to talk with an attorney named Allen Freemyer, who is working on the bill for Senator Hoeven. I don't feel comfortable communicating my concerns to him, unless I get approval from you. And if I do have approval, how do you want me to proceed with him?Matt <hr/> From: Wald, James J. &lt;jawald@nd.gov&gt;Sent: Friday, December 3, 2021 9:44 AMTo: Sagsveen, Matthew A. &lt;masagsve@nd.gov&gt;; Smith, Jodi &lt;jodi.smith@nd.gov&gt;Cc: Garner, David P. &lt;dpgarner@nd.gov&gt;Subject: RE: Privileged Communication Matt, Would you be available sometime this morning to hop on a call and discuss your concerns with Allen Freemyer? The first is that I do not believe the Land Board, or frankly the State, has the authority to convey away section line rights of way that encumber state lands. The State holds and manages section line rights of way in trust for the public. And, such encumbrances would be conveyed with any transfer as a matter of state law. Consequently, I don't think either the Land Board or the State could convey "clear title" as required by the proposed federal law. It would be inconsistent with the law, and our long-standing litigation position in the Section Line case, to say that the Land Board or the State may simply terminate the right of way as part of a conveyance. Also, practically speaking, I would be concerned that the consolidation of federal land in the National Grasslands is not in the interests of the State. The Forest Service has been trying for many years to declare certain portions of the Nat. Grasslands and roadless areas. And, removing or disestablishing roads every year. The State has consistently opposed these attempts by the FS. Any actions by the State that result in the consolidation of federal lands in the national grasslands would likely be seen by the grazing association as helping to facilitate the elimination of roads and establishment of roadless areas. Also, you should know that the United States takes the position in our case that section lines are not valid existing rights. Even if the state thought it was conveying section lines with a land transfer, it is possible that the United States would accept that conveyance as a conveyance of "clear title", because the United States does not recognize the rights of way as valid existing rights. I am happy to discuss further if you would like.Matt |

Wayne,
 Jodi has asked me to review the attached law that Sen. Hoeven is working on. I have some concerns with the law that relate to section lines....see below. It looks like Jodi wants me to talk with an attorney named Allen Freemyer, who is working on the bill for Senator Hoeven. I don't feel comfortable communicating my concerns to him, unless I get approval from you. And if I do have approval, how do you want me to proceed with him?

Matt,

Would you be available sometime this morning to hop on a call and discuss your concerns with Allen Freemyer? Allen is the attorney who has been working on the draft of this bill on behalf of Senator Hoeven.

James and Jodi,
 I do have a few serious concerns with this law after my brief review. The first is that I do not believe the Land Board, or frankly the State, has the authority to convey away section line rights of way that encumber state lands. The State holds and manages section line rights of way in trust for the public. And, such encumbrances would be conveyed with any transfer as a matter of state law. Consequently, I don't think either the Land Board or the State could convey "clear title" as required by the proposed federal law. It would be inconsistent with the law, and our long-standing litigation position in the Section Line case, to say that the Land Board or the State may simply terminate the right of way as part of a conveyance. Also, practically speaking, I would be concerned that the consolidation of federal land in the National Grasslands is not in the interests of the State. The Forest Service has been trying for many years to declare certain portions of the Nat. Grasslands and roadless areas. And, removing or disestablishing roads every year. The State has consistently opposed these attempts by the FS. Any actions by the State that result in the consolidation of federal lands in the national grasslands would likely be seen by the grazing association as helping to facilitate the elimination of roads and establishment of roadless areas.

Also, you should know that the United States takes the position in our case that section lines are not valid existing rights. Even if the state thought it was conveying section lines with a land transfer, it is possible that the United States would accept that conveyance as a conveyance of "clear title", because the United States does not recognize the rights of way as valid existing rights.

I am happy to discuss further if you would like.
 Matt

Senate: No specials for nonprofit cemeteries</h3> A bill banning special assessments against nonprofit cemeteries was unanimously passed by the state Senate on Tuesday, and now the bill will head to the House of Representatives for a final vote. By: Ryan Johnson, Grand Forks Herald A bill banning special assessments against nonprofit cemeteries was unanimously passed by the state Senate on Tuesday, and now the bill will head to the House of Representatives for a final vote. Sen. Ray Holmberg, R-Grand Forks, said Senate Bill 2241 will need a hearing in the House before coming up for a final vote, but he didn't know when that will happen. He wouldn't comment on the chances of the bill passing the House, but said Tuesday's unanimous vote "is a good omen." There was no debate in the Senate either, which Holmberg said he expected because senators had many discussions before the vote. "The bottom line was we said it's just wrong to assess dead people for benefit," he said. "Frankly, (dead people) don't care. I think the Legislature surely does because there was no discussion on the other side." Special assessments are a kind of property tax used to pay for infrastructure such as streets and dikes. They are levied on benefiting properties, which usually means a section of the city. Holmberg introduced the bill two weeks ago as a reaction to a dispute between the Grand Forks City Council and the Grand Forks Cemetery Association. Association President Gordon Iseminger argued the assessments were already banned by a 1970 state Supreme Court decision, but some City Council members said the fees that pay for Grand Forks' flood protection system should be charged to everyone as a matter of fairness. Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem said in a March 18 opinion that the law was unsettled in this area. Solving old problem         The bill was amended in the Senate Finance and Taxation Committee before being approved by the Senate Tuesday. Sen. Connie Triplett, D-Grand Forks, said some lawmakers were originally concerned about exempting cemeteries because it could cause a large increase of special assessments to other property owners in the district. But a change that makes it clear that the city can spread the fees across the whole municipality rather than expect a single district to make up the difference helps keep the impact to a minimum, she said. "We think this is a fair solution to a long, 40-year-old problem," Triplett said. The Grand Forks Cemetery Association currently owes the city $240,000 from previous assessments and was scheduled for another $118,000 next year. It paid $45,000 toward the assessments but hasn't paid any additional money since 2004. Holmberg said if the law passes the House, that debt would be erased and the city could spread the fees out across all other special assessment payers. "It clearly gives the city a direction of what they can do," he said. |

Senate: No specials for nonprofit cemeteries</h3> A bill banning special assessments against nonprofit cemeteries was unanimously passed by the state Senate on Tuesday, and now the bill will head to the House of Representatives for a final vote. By: Ryan Johnson, Grand Forks Herald A bill banning special assessments against nonprofit cemeteries was unanimously passed by the state Senate on Tuesday, and now the bill will head to the House of Representatives for a final vote. Sen. Ray Holmberg, R-Grand Forks, said Senate Bill 2241 will need a hearing in the House before coming up for a final vote, but he didn't know when that will happen. He wouldn't comment on the chances of the bill passing the House, but said Tuesday's unanimous vote "is a good omen." There was no debate in the Senate either, which Holmberg said he expected because senators had many discussions before the vote. "The bottom line was we said it's just wrong to assess dead people for benefit," he said. "Frankly, (dead people) don't care. I think the Legislature surely does because there was no discussion on the other side." Special assessments are a kind of property tax used to pay for infrastructure such as streets and dikes. They are levied on benefiting properties, which usually means a section of the city. Holmberg introduced the bill two weeks ago as a reaction to a dispute between the Grand Forks City Council and the Grand Forks Cemetery Association. Association President Gordon Iseminger argued the assessments were already banned by a 1970 state Supreme Court decision, but some City Council members said the fees that pay for Grand Forks' flood protection system should be charged to everyone as a matter of fairness. Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem said in a March 18 opinion that the law was unsettled in this area. Solving old problem         The bill was amended in the Senate Finance and Taxation Committee before being approved by the Senate Tuesday. Sen. Connie Triplett, D-Grand Forks, said some lawmakers were originally concerned about exempting cemeteries because it could cause a large increase of special assessments to other property owners in the district. But a change that makes it clear that the city can spread the fees across the whole municipality rather than expect a single district to make up the difference helps keep the impact to a minimum, she said. "We think this is a fair solution to a long, 40-year-old problem," Triplett said. The Grand Forks Cemetery Association currently owes the city $240,000 from previous assessments and was scheduled for another $118,000 next year. It paid $45,000 toward the assessments but hasn't paid any additional money since 2004. Holmberg said if the law passes the House, that debt would be erased and the city could spread the fees out across all other special assessment payers. "It clearly gives the city a direction of what they can do," he said. |

Download the App

All in-person attendees should download NAAAG's meetings app from the Apple or Android store prior to the program. Once downloaded, you can find meeting locations, view the agenda, attendance list, review the sessions, and more.

Please make sure you download the official NAAAG Meetings app, and not Socio. You can click this link to download the app or search for "NAAAG Meetings" on the Apple or Google Play stores. Once downloaded, you should see the NAAAG Capital Forum in the app.

Health and Safety

The health and safety of NAAAG Capital Forum attendees is our utmost priority. Based on the latest guidance from the CDC, we ask that all in-person attendees and staff wear a mask or face covering in the event space, except during meals or when speaking on the stage. Face masks and hand sanitizer will be available at NAAAG's registration desk. Please note:

- If you are sick or have recently been in contact with someone who is sick or has tested positive for COVID, please stay home.
- If you are unvaccinated, please take a COVID-19 PCR test within 72 hours prior to attending the forum and attend only if you receive a negative test result.
- If you begin experiencing any of these symptoms while on-site, please contact Erin Schechter at eschechter@naag.org.

Additional Information

- Face masks will be available at NAAAG's registration desk.
- Hand sanitizer will be available at NAAAG's registration desk and throughout the meeting space.
- Signage reminding attendees to wear masks will be placed throughout the meeting space.
- Seating will be distanced as much as possible.

| Body        | I certainly agree with all you have written, Doug. In North Dakota we worked hard to collaborate with all the stakeholders to address the problem of human trafficking. We too had a low grade from this group and came up with a comprehensive legislative strategy to address the concerns at that time. I coordinated a legislative response, arranged rare joint Senate/House committee hearings on our legislation, achieved significant state funding for our Human Trafficking Task Force ad programs, trained law enforcement on the new laws, and so much more. We moved to the top of these ratings and are proud of all we have accomplished. Now I see that we have had the goal posts moved, and are somehow back at the bottom of the grades. I would think Shared Hope would have engaged in a collaborative way with us, instead of dropping most of the nation to F grades, and not recognizing the strides we have made. Let me know what you think we can do.Wayne From: Kocarnik, Laurie &lt;laurie.kocarnik@nebraska.gov&gt;Sent: Friday, December 3, 2021 4:04 PMTo: djp1977 &lt;djp1977@nebraska.gov&gt;Subject: Shared Hope   CAUTION: This email originated from an outside source. This grade provided a challenge for our office, the Governor, and our state legislators to improve understanding of how law enforcement views victims, the law provides and protects victims, and our ability to prosecute perpetrators. Fast forward to 2019 and Nebraska was recognized with a grade of "A-" because many new laws had been put in place as tools to allow us to prosecute sex traffickers. We also did substantial training and education about human trafficking across the state. In spite of significantly improvements in our state's response to human trafficking, recently, we learned that Nebraska has dropped to a grade of "F" under Shared Hope's new standards. We are joined by 48 other states in receiving failing or near failing grades. This gives a false impression of the work we have done and undoubtedly the significant work done by your office as well. Share Hope's new system only looks at state laws. This fails to recognize what is already being done through regulations or is the consistent practice of states. Yet, without meeting the required checklist of laws, a state will receive a failing grade. This gives a false impression that 49 states are failing or nearly failing in our battle against sex trafficking. We did provide feedback to Shared Hope during the drafting process of new standards and yet the problematic parts remain. Shared Hope's new list of recommended laws contains suggestions that are not advisable and in some cases are unconstitutional. I'm very concerned that Shared Hope has taken this approach. If you are interested in addressing this issue with me to the leadership of Shared Hope, please let me know. Sincerely,               Douglas J. | Body        | I certainly agree with all you have written, Doug. In North Dakota we worked hard to collaborate with all the stakeholders to address the problem of human trafficking. We too had a low grade from this group and came up with a comprehensive legislative strategy to address the concerns at that time. I coordinated a legislative response, arranged rare joint Senate/House committee hearings on our legislation, achieved significant state funding for our Human Trafficking Task Force ad programs, trained law enforcement on the new laws, and so much more. We moved to the top of these ratings and are proud of all we have accomplished. Now I see that we have had the goal posts moved, and are somehow back at the bottom of the grades. I would think Shared Hope would have engaged in a collaborative way with us, instead of dropping most of the nation to F grades, and not recognizing the strides we have made. Let me know what you think we can do.Wayne From: Kocarnik, Laurie &lt;laurie.kocarnik@nebraska.gov&gt;Sent: Friday, December 3, 2021 4:04 PMTo: djp1977 &lt;djp1977@nebraska.gov&gt;Subject: Shared Hope   CAUTION: This email originated from an outside source. This grade provided a challenge for our office, the Governor, and our state legislators to improve understanding of how law enforcement views victims, the law provides and protects victims, and our ability to prosecute perpetrators. Fast forward to 2019 and Nebraska was recognized with a grade of "A-" because many new laws had been put in place as tools to allow us to prosecute sex traffickers. We also did substantial training and education about human trafficking across the state. In spite of significantly improvements in our state's response to human trafficking, recently, we learned that Nebraska has dropped to a grade of "F" under Shared Hope's new standards. We are joined by 48 other states in receiving failing or near failing grades. This gives a false impression of the work we have done and undoubtedly the significant work done by your office as well. Share Hope's new system only looks at state laws. This fails to recognize what is already being done through regulations or is the consistent practice of states. Yet, without meeting the required checklist of laws, a state will receive a failing grade. This gives a false impression that 49 states are failing or nearly failing in our battle against sex trafficking. We did provide feedback to Shared Hope during the drafting process of new standards and yet the problematic parts remain. Shared Hope's new list of recommended laws contains suggestions that are not advisable and in some cases are unconstitutional. I'm very concerned that Shared Hope has taken this approach. If you are interested in addressing this issue with me to the leadership of Shared Hope, please let me know. Sincerely,               Douglas J. Good morning,

Did Senator Klein talk to you about taking the Attorney General off the Wednesday LAFRC schedule and putting us on the next meeting? Wayne will be out of the office this week. Wayne visited with Senator Klein and he said he would try to contact you.

Thanks,
BK

Subject: Acute Psychiatric Treatment Committee Meeting Presentation - 1/20/2022

Mr. Stenehjem,

Representative Jon O. Nelson, Chairman, has called a meeting of the Legislative Management's Acute Psychiatric Treatment Committee for Thursday, January 20, 2022, beginning at 9:00 a.m. in the Harvest Room of the State Capitol. Presenters are expected to present in person in the committee room.

Chairman Nelson asks that you or your representative arrange for a presentation from 1:00 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. regarding the Attorney General's office involvement with occupational boards providing mental and behavioral health services and similarities and differences of licensing and reciprocity requirements.

Please submit an electronic copy of your presentation to me at lkinnischtzke@nd.gov by 9:00 a.m. Wednesday, January 19, 2022, so we may attach your presentation to the committee's online meeting agenda for use by committee members and members of the public.

The meeting agenda will be posted to the committee's 2021-22 interim webpage.

Please contact me if you have any questions regarding the meeting.

Thank you.
